

Charles A. Wells, M.S., Ph.D.
Senior Advisor to the Director, ORWH, OD, NIH

Dr. Charles Wells is a Senior Advisor to the Director, Office of Research on Women's Health (ORWH), Office of the Director, National Institutes of Health (NIH). He oversees the Research Enhancement Awards Program (REAP). Dr. Wells also serves on the DHHS Coordinating Committee on Women's Health (CCWH) and ORWH Coordinating Committee on Research on Women's Health. His duties include assisting the Director, ORWH with raising the perception of the scientific community about the importance of sex and gender factors in biomedical research, health care and public policy. Prior to joining ORWH, he was the Director of Public Health and Environmental Justice, National Institute of Environmental Health Sciences (NIEHS), NIH. He also served as a Senior Advisor for Diabetes Prevention Research in the National Institute of Diabetes and Digestive and Kidney Diseases (NIDDK), NIH and as a Senior Health Scientist Administrator in the National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute (NHLBI), NIH. Dr. Wells was a member of the Federal Interagency Working Group on Environmental Justice. Dr. Wells received his Ph.D. in Reproductive Endocrinology and Physiology from Howard University. The research for his Ph.D. was conducted at the National Institutes of Health. He also completed Post Doctoral training in Molecular Biology as a Staff Fellow at the NIH and Post Doctoral training at the Johns Hopkins University School of Hygiene and Public Health. He has more than twenty-five years of experience as a researcher in molecular biology and reproductive physiology; and as a Senior Health Scientist Administrator. and as Director, Public Health and Environmental Justice. He served on active duty as a Senior Scientist Officer in the Commissioned Corps of the U.S. Public Health Service for more than twenty six years. He has also taught part-time at Howard University. He has served on numerous review and technical panels, boards and Federal Advisory committees. Dr. Wells has received numerous Agency Awards and Commendations from the Commissioned Corps of the U.S. Public Health Service.

Charles A. Wells, Ph.D.
Senior Advisor to the Director
Office of Research on Women's Health
Office of the Director
National Institutes of Health
Suite 400/MS-C-5484
6707 Democracy Boulevard
Bethesda, Maryland 20892
(301) 402-1770