

National Institutes of Health
Office of Research on Women's Health

Elizabeth Howell, M.D., M.P.P. (she/her)

Chair, Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology, Perelman School of Medicine, University of Pennsylvania

Dr. Howell was previously a Professor of Population Health Science & Policy and OB-GYN and the Founding Director of the Blavatnik Family Women's Health Research Institute at the Icahn School of Medicine at Mount Sinai. She is an NIH-funded OB-GYN health services researcher, and her major research interests are the intersection between quality of care and disparities in maternal and infant morbidity and mortality and postpartum depression and its impact on underserved communities. She has served on several expert committees, including for the Institute of Medicine, NIH, The Joint Commission, the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, and international scientific advisory boards. She co-chaired the Alliance for Innovation on Maternal Health's Working Group on Reduction of Peripartum Racial Disparities, served on the New York governor's Taskforce on Maternal Mortality and Disparate Racial Outcomes, served on the New York City Maternal Mortality and Morbidity Steering Committee, and testified in Congress to ask for maternal health care legislation. She currently co-chairs the National Quality Forum's Committee on Maternal Morbidity and Mortality.

