

Ridhi Tariyal, M.B.A., SM

Blavatnik Fellow; Ferolyn Fellow, CEO and co-Founder of NextGen Jane

Ms. Tariyal, received her BS degree from Georgia Tech; MBA from Harvard University and SM from MIT. At NextGen Jane, Ridhi has driven the development of a novel menstrual data platform characterizing uterine biology at a molecular level. In this effort, she has raised capital, established an IP position, and developed a team to create both novel hardware and software to change how women access care. Before NGJ, Ridhi worked at the Broad Institute and at Bristol Myers Squibb.

